This course offers an introduction to the religions of Judaism, Christianity and Islam, often called “Western” religions because of their common origins in the God of Abraham. We will be concerned with their historical development, rituals, beliefs, ethics, and their interaction (both directly and indirectly) with contemporary society and politics and with each other. Our goal is to understand and appreciate the various world-views of diverse cultures on their own terms, without making judgments about the truth-claims of any religious tradition. We will try to gain an effective knowledge base from which to think critically about the many pressing issues which have arisen in the post-9/11/01 world with regard to these religions.

The course load involves writing three short papers, plus one longer paper based upon your visit to a worship service of a religion other than your own (broadly defined). There are also two tests and a final exam. If you are not comfortable with any of these requirements (for whatever reasons), you may wish to reconsider your enrollment.

This course fulfills the following core curriculum learning goals of Rutgers University.

Students will:

- * Understand the bases and development of human and societal endeavors across time and place.
- * Explain the development of some aspect of a society or culture over time, including the history of ideas or history of science.
- * Employ historical reasoning to study human endeavors.
- * Understand different theories about human culture, social identity, economic entities, political systems, and other forms of social organization.
- * Apply concepts about human and social behavior to particular questions or situations.
- * Examine critically philosophical and other theoretical issues concerning the nature of reality, human experience, knowledge, value, and/or cultural production.

A Note about Grading: A's are supposed to be exceptional grades. In order to earn an A(-) in this course, you must complete all assignments really well. Your work should not only be flawless, but also above and beyond expectations. Doing all assignments well fits more appropriately in the B range of grades. When work is flawed, late, or incomplete, it fits into the C and D range.

Course Requirements:

1. Attendance. Good attendance demonstrates a solid commitment and typically influences your grades on all other aspects of the course. Some of the material covered in lectures and class discussion is not found in the textbooks; additional details may be given in class regarding particular assignments; and exams will draw from both text and class material – so it is vital to be present. If you are sick or have an emergency, it is wise to let me know. Use the University absence reporting website (<https://sims.rutgers.edu/ssra/>) to indicate the date and reason for your absence. An email is automatically sent to me. You will be allowed two absences (beginning January 21) before your grade is officially penalized; each absence beyond that (or the equivalent in tardies or leaving early) will lower your “Attendance and Participation” grade one notch. No “incomplete” grades will be given for falling behind or sporadic/poor attendance.
2. Participation in class. This requires completing the assignments before each class, arriving on time, taking notes, and being actively engaged in any class discussion. This also includes leading one sacred text discussion and explicitly contributing to all sacred text discussions (in both written and oral form), in addition to your performance on occasional “pop” quizzes on the reading material. Note: while late written assignments will be penalized, you will be allowed one late paper (one class period) without a penalty. Use of electronic devices such as cell phones, laptops and tablets in class must only be for purposes related to this course (such as note-taking). The burden of proof is on you to demonstrate that you are not using such devices for other purposes. Otherwise, my assumption will be that you are not participating in class and your grade will be lowered.
3. Reflection Papers, due as indicated on the syllabus. These are critical reflections (NOT summaries) on your reading of the assigned sacred texts of each tradition. You should do your best to address thoughtful reactions, concerns, questions and insights, especially in light of material covered in class or in the textbook. The point is to engage in a deeper, more critically-thought way with the formative texts of these religions. In a sense, you will “interrogate” the text in order to reveal multiple levels of meaning and interpretation, to expose problems for today’s world, to uncover “hidden” contradictions, and to challenge your own preconceived notions and assumptions about what these sacred texts have to say. See more detailed suggestions on separate assignment sheet.

You will need to complete a total of three (3) of these papers, one for each of the religious traditions studied (on the syllabus: #'s J1 or J2; C1 or C2; I1 or I2). These should be two-pages minimum, typed double-spaced in 12-point (no larger) Times New Roman font with 1" margins (or less) all around. Do NOT waste space for a heading; you may write your name and the date in the top margin and begin your text on the first typed line. Each paper is graded on a 1-10 numbered scale and will drop a half-number for each class period the paper is late.

10 = A (An extraordinary paper. Thorough. Effective critical thinking. Rare but possible)
 9.5 = A- (An excellent paper – well above and beyond expectations)
 9 = B+ (Insightfully completed paper as expected and written very well)
 8.5 = B (This is the typical grade for completing the paper as assigned)
 8 = B- (Not quite up to expectations)
 7.5 = C+ (Falls short in length or critical thinking)
 7 = C (Falls short as above and/or too much summary without analysis)
 6.5 = C- (Falls short as above and/or poor writing skills)
 6 = D+ (These grades and below are compounding the problems mentioned above)
 5.5 = D
 5 = D-

4. Service Critique, due no later than May 1. See separate instructions. A late Service Critique will drop a full grade (example A- to B-) for each week it is late. You should be prepared to discuss your experience with the class.
5. Two Tests, on Judaism and Christianity, February 25 and April 3. Absence from the tests without prior notification and arrangements will result in a zero grade.
6. Final Exam, on Islam and inter-religious issues, Friday, May 9, 12:00-3:00 pm. Again, absence will result in a zero grade.

Criteria for Evaluation:

- accuracy and precision of scholarship
- clarity of oral and written expression
- progress in critical thinking skills
- completion of assignments and readings on due dates
- thoroughness, creativity, originality and contribution to field of inquiry

Grades will be based on the following formula:

Attendance and Participation		20%
Sacred Text Reflection Papers	20%
Service Critique		20%
Two Tests		20%
Final Exam		20%

All assignments should be turned in as a hard copy. If you need to email an assignment in order to hand it in on time (by the beginning of class), please feel free to do so. You should send it to duganmcg@rci.rutgers.edu BOTH as an attachment and as text in the message, then follow it up with a hard copy. An Attachment alone does not guarantee the paper has been received. You may also leave papers in the mailbox or under the office door as long as they are clearly marked to the attention of Dr. McGinley. Remember that if you EVER consult an outside source for something you are writing, you MUST acknowledge it through an appropriate citation. Portraying someone else's ideas or work as your own is plagiarism and any student found plagiarizing will receive an F for the entire course.
